A Large Crayon Portrait of Your self.

FREE OF CHARGE.

In order to advertise our business more extensively and in a desirable manner, we have decided to present our customers a splendid enlarged portrait of yourself or friend. The conditions on which you receive this beautiful and appropriate gift are exceedingly light and worthy your consideration.

We Will State Them in Few Words:

Buy $15 worth of goods by paying us the very lowest cash prices and the deed is done. You can then furnish us with a calico picture, panel, tintype or other picture of yourself or friend and we will have it enlarged at once, and present it to you absolutely free.

The size of the picture will be 14x17 inches and the frame 25x28 inches, the latter being of late design in antique steel bronze or gilt. These pictures are from the studio of one of the best artists in Chicago, and were never sold for less than $10 or $15 without frames.

Remember, we do not ask you to buy large bills at any one time, but will furnish you with a card, on the back of which place figures of convenient amounts, from 25 cents to $1.00—making a total of $15. When you make a purchase we punch out a set of these figures, and when all are punched out we will present you with the picture.

Call at our store and see a sample of the work, and please do not forget that we give this picture of YOURSELF, WIFE, CHILD, FRIEND, FATHER, MOTHER, SWETHEART, etc., laid out in a most elegant frame, at the cost of charge. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

What could be nicer for home adornment than one of these elegant CRAYONS?

We have also made arrangements with a large frame manufactory to mount and frame these portraits for our patrons in the best style at one-fourth the usual cost of a frame.

You can have either gilt or bronze frame, with first-class French plate glass, all ready to hang on the wall.

YOU ARE, HOWEVER, NOT OBLIGED to purchase a frame at all, or you can purchase it at some other store. This does not matter to us; we give you the picture and sell you the frame at cost if you wish it.

Your Generously,

The Fair Store,

A Terribly Fatal Explosion.

By Associated Press.]

CINCINNATI, July 16.—The following is a list of the killed at the explosion yesterday at King's Mills: Mrs. James Deacon, Henry Reynolds, Samuel Stephens, Mrs. James Moss and child, Mrs. Fred Keller and child, William Framey, Ralph Williams, Baby Elstine, Nick Snyder and an unknown man. A dozen are injured, some of whom will die.

Joseph Proctor, a well-known resident of Columbus, was an eye-witness of the terrible affair, and gave a very vivid account of the explosion. The gentleman is still suffering from the effects of his terrible experience, and trembled visibly when talking: "I hardly know how I can describe the awful occurrence. I am still dazed from the effects of the shock. I was visiting a friend near King's Mills, and during the afternoon sauntered up the road to the cartridge factory. When the freight train came along I started toward my friend's house, and, on reaching the top of the hill, I turned around just as the freight train was making a running switch to the sidetrack. I saw a brakeman on one of the cars as they shot onto the sidetrack; he was waving his hand to someone on the train. As I looked I saw two detached cars bumped against what I supposed were empty cars on the sidetrack, and an instant later there was a rumbling noise, then the very ground beneath me seemed to open. I saw a puff of smoke, followed a second later by another, and the cars disappeared. The station and powder house and dwelling seemed to follow, and the work of destruction was only just commenced. I stood rooted to the ground; I had an idea, of course, of what had occurred, but I could not realize it. I knew many lives were going out, but I was powerless to lend assistance. Then a dense volume of flames came pouring from the doors and windows of the cartridge factory, and I saw men, women and children tearing at each other in frantic endeavors to escape. The explosion and fire at the cartridge house seemed to be simultaneous. The building did not catch on fire in the ordinary way, but the flames seemed to penetrate the doors and windows from all sides. I saw a number of women come out, but some certainly perished in the flames. The dwelling house below the cartridge house was blown from its foundations and dashed to the ground. In this building a mother and child lost their lives. How long I stood I do not know, but I managed to make my way to the scene, and others in the neighborhood also gathered there. The scene was the most terrible I ever witnessed. The railroad track was twisted and torn like so much paper, and telegraph poles and wires burned like tinder. We got to work as soon as possible, and I know we got fully a dozen women and men from the powder house. There was not one but was injured or bruised. They seemed to be oblivious of their surroundings, and I don't think they realized what had occurred. Some were badly burned and others cut and bruised by the force of the explosion. To add to the horrible scene there was a constant snapping of cartridges, and the rescuers were in danger of being killed at any moment. I don't know how many were killed, but I am of the opinion that ten at least lost lives. The number of wounded is double that."

Molders Sent Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Six non-union molders who had been imported from the East to work in the foundries here took the overland train for their homes yesterday. Their expenses were paid out of the funds of the Iron Molders' Union. Five of the men who returned home arrived on Monday night, and were captured by the strikers before they got into the foundries. Thirteen remaining workmen who arrived on Monday night were placed at work in the different foundries yesterday.

A Sickening Account of Chinese Cruelty.

Chinese Methods.

By Associated Press.]

CHICAGO, July 16.—Edwin Rexham, an English resident of China, now in this city, tells the following story of the recent Chinese expedition against Formosa: At the approach of the Chinese army of Formosan savages fled to the hills, and that ended the campaign. General Chen Tai returned with a few selected troops by steamer, leaving the rest to get back as they best could. Many marched overland, and some were sent in freight boats with rations for one day. They were out eight, and some 30 or 40 were starved to death and from 250 to 300 died of fever. They were landed at the harbor of Apung where the most horrible scenes were enacted. The dying men were strewed about the decks, and the Consul sent an appeal to Chen Tai, who responded by sending grave diggers. These added to the horror of the situation. According to an old custom, when a soldier dies his officer draws burial expenses from the Government, a part of which money goes to the dead man's comrades. This burial money was an incentive to the most horrible atrocities by the grave diggers. All the sick who were supposed to be dying were hustled into the coffins and buried before the bodies were cold. It is told that the soldiers were seen forcing the lid of a coffin down on a feeble victim, who was pitifully crying for water. The coffin lid was nailed fast, and the living man hurried away to burial.

ANOTHER ARIZONA MURDER.

Special to the Gazette.]

GLOBE (A.T.), July 16.—Information was received last night of the discovery of the dead body of Edward Baker at his cabin in the Sierra Ancha mountains, forty miles north of Globe. He is supposed to have been murdered on the 14th inst., and some doubts are expressed as to whether the deed was committed by Apaches or white rustlers, but the fact that the body had been mutilated about the head points to the killing by Indians. A number of horses were stolen and the cabin looted. Citizens from Salt River and Sheriff Thompson with a posse, left yesterday for the scene. Troops and scouts from San Carlos and surrounding posts are also on route.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE resolutions adopted at the Sheffield meeting Monday night, in protest against the McKinley bill, show a curious inability to comprehend the principles which underlie the American policy of Protection. Our English friends seem to have the idea that we are discriminating against them, and that the Tariff bill is a political job. Why, asks the Bulletin, do they give subsidies to British steamers? To get and hold the carrying trade, not to injure the United States or any other country. For like reasons we put on a tariff not to hurt England but to help ourselves. If England could help herself by retaliating on American goods, it would be legitimate business, but in fact she would hurt herself in any effort to get the best of us.

FOR twenty years the Democratic party on this coast was more anxious to fasten the charge of being pro-Chinese upon the Republican party than it was to secure the passage of laws to prevent Chinese incoming. It was the old old story—Democratic partisan advantage first, the public welfare afterwards. At last all such nonsense was dropped and the truth was conceded that the members of both parties were solidly in favor of Chinese exclusion. An then Chinese exclusion came about. We are likely to have a repetition of this sort of thing on the silver question, and we are sorry for it for inasmuch as such a movement will affect the question at all it will retard free coinage.

THE fact was commented on caustically by a number of citizens yesterday that on the day of the death of gallant General Fremont, the "Pathfinder," not a single flag was at half-mast in Reno, in the State which he traversed as an explorer so many days gone by. Stanley is feasted and honored for making a pathway through the dark Continent, while the far more adventurous "Pathfinder" is left unremembered by the people to whom he was a Moses.

Salvador has declared a state of siege, and war with Guatemala is deemed imminent. There seems to have been no effort made in any quarter to induce a submission of the quarrel to arbitration, in accordance with the recent action of the Pan-American Congress. So far as can be ascertained there is nothing to arbitrate. The row seems to be merely on grounds of jealousy and suspicion of motives without any practical issue.

DAN O'KEEFE, Prop'r.

JOHN P. JONES is said to be at work on a great tariff argument with which he intends to eclipse his free coinage speech. We will bet him the price of a pure California Democratic Assemblyman (Buckley brand) that he cannot do it. We wonder if our senior Senator appreciates how entirely great a document his silver speech is?

THE Chinese Government declares that it will never entrust the real authority of the navy to a foreigner. This is in accordance with all Chinese precedent. As soon as they learn the trick of anything they have no further use for the whites who taught it. This holds good in private as well as public affairs, as some of our manufacturers know to their cost.

MYSTERIOUS MIRAGES.

Optical Illusions That Have Astonished Those Who Saw Them.

Various Forms of One of Nature's Strangest Phenomena—Remarkable Sight Witnessed on the Shore of Lake Ontario and at Rochester.

This wonderful phenomenon takes several forms, according to the state of the atmosphere, but those most generally seen are the looming mirage and the Fata Morgana.

In looming mirages distant objects show an extravagant increase in vertical height without alteration in breadth, says the New York Observer. Distant hummocks of ice are thus magnified into immense towers and pinnacles, and a ship is sometimes abnormally drawn out until it appears twelve or thirteen times as high as it is long. Rocks are seen drawn up to ten or twelve times their proper height. Houses, as well as human beings and animals, appear in like exaggerated shape.

Another form of mirage is when a ship, or some other object near the water, seems greatly elongated, and a second inverted image meets it from above. Sometimes the proper image of the object is elevated far above the lake or sea, while the second image strangely appears inverted beneath it; the whole surrounded by a sheet of sky, which mirrored and repeated within it.

Dr. Vince, on Aug 6, 1866, at seven p.m., saw from Ramsgate, at which place only the tops of Dover Castle towers are usually visible, the whole of the castle. It appeared as though lifted up and bodily placed on the near side of the intervening hill. So perfect was this illusion that the hill itself actually could not be seen through the figure.

Some forms of mirage are lateral as well as vertical, arising from unequal density of two contiguous vertical bodies of air. Thus, on Lake Geneva, a boat has been seen double, the two images some distance apart. Persons have been duplicated in the same way. Any one on a hot day, by placing his eye near to a heated wall, may see lateral mirages of objects at a distance, and nearly on a line with the wall.

Here, on the shores of Lake Ontario, many beautiful and wonderful mirages are witnessed. The lake is so wide the opposite side is not at all visible. And yet during some peculiar states of the atmosphere it is clearly outlined. A gentleman witnessed a most perfect mirage from Sheldon's Point, Oswego. It was about one o'clock in the afternoon when a splendid view of the Canada shore was given. It extended from a point nearly opposite Oswego City to Cape Vincent, at points on the Jefferson County shore. Whole blocks of the city of Kingston were visible and localities distinctly defined. From Sackett's Harbor, Point Peninsula, ten miles distant, has appeared not more than two or three miles away, and so plainly in view that the limbs of trees were visible. Stony Island stood out plainly in view, and far beyond it could be seen Gallop and Duck Island. Even the Canada shore in the vicinity of Long Point and Prince Edward's Bay was at times plainly in sight.

In Syracuse, a distant city, a remarkable mirage was witnessed by many persons. It lasted two hours and was best observed from University hill looking northwest over Onondaga lake. Lake Ontario was plainly visible, and stretching out at an angle of 25 degrees of the horizon it looked like an ocean. Prof. Comfort says that a few years previous a similar mirage occurred, and it was so distinct that by means of a glass he could discern a town, probably Kingston.

Portions of Rochester and sections of the country lying south of it have been seen out in the lake six and ten miles distant, as though the city was standing erect in the air. Trains of moving cars and other objects were clearly defined, the aerial phenomena continuing for nearly an hour.

A well-known lake captain has also witnessed a wonderful mirage out on Lake Ontario. While on his way from the St. Lawrence up the lake and near the islands known as the False Ducks, and while standing at the wheel, there suddenly burst into view the city of Oswego, thirty-one miles distant, with the gas lights in the streets and all the appearance a town lighted up would present from a hill in the immediate vicinity at night. The light-house at Oswego, as well as others on the lake shore below as far as Sackett's Harbor, were distinctly seen. It was a sort of night mirage, and a rare sight indeed. It lasted for several minutes, then slowly faded away into darkness.

At Rochester, which is about twenty miles inland from Lake Ontario, a mirage of the most surpassing character was witnessed by many. The entire northern sky as far as the angle, or horizon, was lighted above the land-mark with the blue waters of Lake Ontario, while reflecting from her bosom could be seen the mountains, hills, valleys, bays and rivers of the Canada shore inland for miles. The coast could be plainly seen mirrored over a stretch of fifty miles and so perfect at one time that the forests could readily be distinguished. The reader can form some idea of its grandeur by knowing that a country separated from Rochester by a lake seventy miles in width was, as if suddenly by the hand of its greatest Creator, painted upon the heavens so plain as to be seen from a standpoint near one hundred miles distant.

The Speckled Cigar.

A Dealer: There are smokers who fish for a cigar that has a speckled wrapper. I have been asked if that sort of a cigar is any better than one that isn't speckled. I don't know why it should be, except the wrapper. A speckled wrapper indicates that the tobacco is the outside piece of the plant, and for that reason is better cured. The outside piece is next to the ground. The rains wash the sands against it, and in curing particles of the sand adhere to the leaf and make the specks.

F. C. GOODALE: I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other blood purifiers.

A. W. DOWS & CO.: Hood's takes the lead of all other sarsaparillas.

G. F. BLANCHARD: We sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of any similar.

MASON & SHAW: With us the sale of Hood's is 1 to 1 of any other kind.

F. & E. BAILEY & CO.: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines.

CARLTON & HOWE: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines we have. Its sale increases every year.

F. P. MOODY: We sell twice as much of Hood's Sarsaparilla as of anything similar.

C. A. SWAN: Hood's is the most popular sarsaparilla.

THIRTY OTHER druggists speak similarly.

This popularity at home, where Hood's Sarsaparilla and its proprietors have been known for many years, could not continue if the medicine did not possess merit. And these facts should certainly convince people in other sections of the country that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good, reliable medicine.

An Old Soldier's Story.

In the late war I was a soldier in the First Maryland Volunteers, Company G. During my term of service I contracted chronic diarrhoea, since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Chills and Disease Bitters were brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow. I take pleasure in recommending this preparation to all of my old comrades, who, while giving their service to their country, contracted this dreadful disease as I did, from eating unwholesome and uncooked food. It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought an other and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 100 pounds. Unpleasantness Avoided.
Several months ago, Mr. Henry Plummer of Clements, Cal., who is subject to cramps, was taken with a severe attack. He had been accustomed to get relief by dosing with morphine, but the disagreeable effect that followed would make him miserable for hours after the cramp had been relieved. I persuaded him to take Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was much pleased with its effect as it was almost instantaneous, and no disagreeable after effects accompanied its use. Char. R. 5381) directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments to said bill and agree to the following in the nature of a substitute: Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to purchase, from time to time, silver bullion to the aggregate amount of $4,500,000 ounces, or so much thereof as may be offered in each month, at the market price thereof, not exceeding $1 for 371.25 grains of pure silver, and to issue payment for such purchase of silver bullion Treasury notes of the United States, to be prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury, in such form and of such denominations, not less than $1 nor more than $1,000, as he may prescribe, and a sum sufficient to carry into effect the provisions of this act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 2. That the Treasury notes issued in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be redeemable demand in coin at the Treasury of the United States, and when so redeemed may be reissued; but no greater or less amount of such notes shall be outstanding at any time than the cost of the silver bullion and the standard silver dollars coined therewith held in the Treasury purchased by such notes; and such Treasury notes shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except where otherwise stipulated in the contract, and shall be receivable for customs, taxes and all public dues, and when so received may be reissued; and such notes, when held by any national banking association, may be counted as a part of its lawful reserve. That upon demand of the holder of any of the Treasury notes herein provided for by the Secretary of the Treasury shall, under such regulations as he may prescribe, redeem such notes in gold or silver coin, at his discretion, it being the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio, or such ratio as may be provided by law.

Sec. 3. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall each month coin two million ounces of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act into standard silver dollars until the 1st of July, 1891, and after that time shall coin of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act as much as may be necessary to provide for the redemption of the Treasury notes herein provided for, and any gain or seigniorage arising from such coinage shall be accounted for and paid to the Treasury.

Sec. 4. That the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act shall be subject to the requirements of existing law and the regulations of the mint service governing the methods of determining the amount of pure silver contained, and the amount of charges or deductions, if any, to be made.

Sec. 5. That so much of the act of February 28, 1878, entitled "An Act to authorize the coining of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal-tender character," as requires the monthly purchase and coining of the same into silver dollars of not less than $2,000,000 nor more than $4,000,000 worth of silver bullion, is hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. That upon the passage of this act the balances standing with the Treasurer of the United States to the respective credits of national banks for deposits made to redeem the circulating notes of such banks, and all deposits thereafter received for like purpose, shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt, and the Treasurer of the United States shall draw from the Treasury such sum in the circulating notes of said bank which may come into his possession subject to redemption; and upon the certificate of the Comptroller of the Currency that such notes have been received by him and that they have been destroyed and that new notes will be issued in their place, reimbursement of their amount shall be made to the Treasurer, under such regulations as he may prescribe, for the amount of the notes of the Treasury may prescribe, from an appropriation heretofore created, to be known as "National bank notes." Redemption account, but the provisions of this act shall not apply to the deposits received under section 3 of the act of June 20, 1874, requiring every national bank to keep in lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States a sum equal to 5 per cent of its circulation, to be used for the redemption of its circulating notes; and the balance remaining of the deposits so covered shall, at the close of each month, be reported on the monthly public debt statement as debt of the United States bearing no interest.

Sec. 7. That this act shall take effect thirty days from and after its passage.

For the purpose of electing delegates to the said State Convention. Primary Elections to be carried out in compliance with the laws of the State and the instructions of the committee.

The following test will be required of each and every voter at the said Primary election:

The following Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this committee re-affirms the National Republican platform for 1888, including the declaration that "the Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money" and that it "condemns efforts to demonetize silver."

Resolved, That the persistent neglect of S. Oregon Windows to increase the coinage of silver to the maximum of four dollars per ounce, and his complicity with his attempt to influence Congressional legislation so as to perpetuate silver demonetization, is a shameless violation of the silver plank of the National Republican platform, an attack on the rights and interests of the miners, farmers and workers of the land, and an act of party perfidy that should call for his retirement from the councils of an administration which he has dedicated to help and no hinder the demonetization of silver."

Resolved, That the Republican party is in favor of free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver; that it holds to this principle as a tenet of party faith and a test of party allegiance; that it will permit of no abandonment or modification of this doctrine; that let whoevers will prove reagent to the principal of inflationism will be repudiated by them, and that it invites all veterans of Nevada, who favor the repeal of the notorious interlined law of 1873 by which silver was demonetized, and who desire the establishment of free and unlimited coinage as the law of the United States of America, to join in electing delegates to a Republican State Convention.

DWELLERS IN MINES.

Queer Creatures Found in Underground Workings.

Beasts, Birds and Vermin That Lurk in Impenetrable Darkness—Trophies Gathered in Various Places by a Mining Expert.

Nothing tries a man's nerves more than the glaring eyes of some unknown animal that has taken up its abode in the dark and deep underground workings of the gold and silver mines of the Far West. Often bears, mountain lions, dogs, cats, rats, birds, snakes and many such things are found in the mines and make many an interesting story. Mr. A. F. Wunsch, now of Denver, but who for several years was the mining editor of the Leadville Herald and Democrat, and who has examined and reported on about 1,500 mines between British Columbia and Old Mexico, recently told the Denver correspondent of the Kansas City Journal some interesting stories about animals he has found in the mines. These were all in gold and silver mines, and not coal mines.

"I once went to Mineral, I.D.," said Mr. Wunsch, "to make a report on the Black Maria mine. On entering the large tunnel that leads to the workings, I stopped to strike a match, and, in doing, placed my hand on one of the timbers of the tunnel. 'Don't do that,' said the superintendent to me, and then further explained to me that I was in danger of being bitten by a rattlesnake. He said that rattlesnakes were quite numerous in that section, and that they sometimes crawled through the night, and are not dangerous then. But early in the morning they crawl out and bask in the sun, and in the evening seek a secluded spot for the night. It was owing to these habits of the rattlesnake that the superintendent gave me the warning. I was at first surprised, for it is an unusual thing to find a rattlesnake in a mine. But the warning was timely, for we had only gone a short distance before we ran across a large snake that was uncoiling itself from behind the timbers to make its way to the sunlight at the mouth of the tunnel. We soon killed the reptile, which was a large one, and secured as a trophy eleven rattles from the tail."

Mr. Wunsch was sent out by the Union Pacific in 1888 as a geologist through Oregon and Idaho. Every night he and the party slept on the ground and never once thought of snakes, for the reason that even in those sections where the rattlers are quite numerous these snakes usually sleep in the night time. This suggests to me a story which a cowboy once told me. He said that although the rattlesnake is not often used for food, yet he liked them. He says that a tender rattlesnake's meat is as white and delicious as that of a frog. He claimed, strange as it may appear, that the whipping of a snake with a switch, when no club is convenient, paralyzes the reptile so that it is easily killed. According to his idea it is not the quality of the meat but prejudice that keeps more people from eating rattlesnakes. "Always be careful, though," added the cowboy, "and do not let the rattlesnake bite itself and thereby poison its own flesh."

Rattlesnakes are sometimes captured for the museums by placing a forked stick on the neck and holding the reptile down until the snake is safely secured, but no one accustomed to this should attempt so dangerous an experiment. I have often seen large rattlesnakes coiled up under the sage brush on the plains, or along the mountain gulches, but never had any desire to experiment with them. "Bears and mountain lions are suspicious," continued the expert, recalling other stories of his experience in Western mining camps. "Hence they are not often found in tunnels. They rarely take up their abode in workings made by man." I have seen their tracks in tunnels where possibly they were compelled to seek shelter, but not often.

Mr. Wunsch says the most annoying circumstance of all his experience in the mining regions of the West was in some mines in Old Mexico. Here are found ows, bats and rats. Some of these famous old mines have inclines from the surface workings, and here and there large chambers, worked out many years ago, as large as the rotundas of many well-known hotels. The length of time in which some of these mines are idle causes them to be infested with rats, ows, bats and other animals.

"I had quite an experience with rats," said the expert, "in the Santa Barbara district in Old Mexico, near the boundary line between the States of Durango and Chihuahua. It was the most uncomfortable sensation I ever had in the gold and silver mines of the West. I tied my broncho to a post near by, and had descended the shaft alone. It was not very deep, and from the bottom of the shaft I followed a drift about three hundred feet. It was just wide enough for a narrow-shouldered Mexican to work in a cramped position. Near the top of the drift and about the height of my head was a streak of quartz four to six inches wide, in a horizontal position. This had been washed out, leaving a kind of groove on both sides of the drift. Well, this groove had become the abode of thousands of large, long-tailed rats, which had probably not been disturbed for many a year. Feeling my way carefully along this drift, with a feeble candle light, I seemed to arouse every rat. Their tails would strike me in the face, and when I would dodge to the opposite side of the narrow drift, it was only to encounter other long tails that would sweep over the groove. I was in no danger, but that pest of rats in that mine in Old Mexico made me more nervous than all my experience in the mining regions."

A Parrot Dies from Grief.

Mr. Torbert, of Madison, Ga., was the owner of a pet parrot. The bird was a good talker and was much petted by the family. During the recent illness of Mr. Torbert, it seemed to understand that something was wrong and ceased to talk. After his death it would pay no attention to any thing around the place, and a few days subsequently died. The parrot was particularly petted by Torbert, and its death was undoubtedly caused by grief.

THEY SOUGHT REVENGE.

Blue Jays Furiously Attack a Horse That Broke Up Their Nest.

Along one side of a field on the Myers farm there is a thick growth of bushes, some of which grow high and strong, says the Lancaster correspondent of the New York Sun. Many kinds of small birds find this thicket most favorably for their nesting places, and in the spring cattle and horses that pasture in the field browse on the sweet and tender young foliage. The owner of the farm turned in the field to pasture a few days ago a number of cattle, among them two horses. The farmer was working in the field, not far from the thicket, when he heard blue jays making more noise than is usual even with these noisy birds. Looking up to see what the trouble might be, he saw four blue jays engaged in a fierce assault on one of the horses. They were darting at him from all sides, pecking at his face, striking him in the neck and sides and about the head in a manner that was evidence enough that the horse had offended them in some aggravated way. The poor horse ran first one way and then another to escape the fury of the excited birds.
